HORSES PERISH IN THE FLAMES

Eleven Head Burned in $10,000 Fire on the Old Ellison Farm,
Southwest of This City.

LARGE BARN WAS DESTROYED

Farmer is Suspicious, but Neighbors
Think Fire Was Result of Spontaneous Combustion.

One of the most disastrous country fires in this county for many years was the conflagration last night on the Mrs. Jerome Ellison farm, six miles southwest of here, which resulted in an $8000 to $10,000 loss. The farm is occupied by Orlie Green and together with the owner, he sustained a heavy loss.

About ten o'clock a blaze was discovered coming from the large barn, but it had made such a headway before assistance could arrive that the structure was soon reduced to ashes. And with it went all its contents, except a binder which Mr. Green succeeded in saving.

Eleven head of fine horses were burned alive in the fire among them being a brood mare and colt belonging to George Wingerter, the cigar manufacturer of this city. He had placed the two animals with Green for the winter. Dick Wilson, the horseman, declared that the Wingerter brood mare was by far, the best in the county.

Besides the horses, the flames destroyed eleven loads of hay, 1000 bushels of corn, a quantity of shredded fodder, farming implements, two farm wagons, one carriage and two other vehicles.

Green thinks the fire was of an incendiary origin, but the neighbors are inclined to believe it came, as did several fires recently, from spontaneous combustion, starting in the shredded fodder. Part of the loss is covered by insurance in the Rush County Farmers' Insurance Association.

THE LAST GRIDIRON BATTLE OF SEASON

Will be Played Thanksgiving Day
Between Oxford, O., High School and Local Team.

NEW SALEM VS SECONDS FIRST

The Rushville high school foot ball team will play the Oxford, Ohio, team Thanksgiving day on the South Main street grounds. This game is expected to be a good one as the local eleven defeated the Ohioans once this season at Oxford by a close score.

Captain Moffett's aggregation took a decided slump after the overwhelming defeat last Saturday, but is now beginning to show signs of their old-time form. They are practicing diligently every night on the gridiron in South Main street and are sure that they will give an account of themselves in the contest next Thursday.

A curtain raiser has been arranged between New Salem high school eleven and the second team of the Rushville high school, to be played just before the big game and in this way two games are to be for one price.

IT'S THE TRUTH, IT DID RAIN FOR SURE

For the First Time in a Great Long
While a "Decent" Rain Fell.

IT WAS THE REAL ARTICLE

The long "prayed-for" rain fell last evening and while it was not of sufficient quantity to be all that could be hoped for, still the farmers and those who suffered from the drought are ever so thankful. It was the first rain that has fallen in Indiana for so long that not a few have forgotten how rain falls and how to properly open an umbrella. But two counties in this State have had rain in several months and then the rainfall was local. One of these counties was Rush.

It has been threatening to rain for several days, but we have grown so used to such threats, that like the spoiled child, we began to doubt old Jupiter Pluvius would ever keep his word. The rain fell throughout most of the night "intermittently" and many went out without covering of any sort and fairly "walled" in the rain.

John Ricker was fined $1 and costs this morning in Mayor Cowing's court on the charge of assault and battery. Birney Adams filed the suit against Ricker.

WEDDING JUST CAME TO LIGHT

Popular and Well Known Couple Were Married During the State Fair.

MARRIED IN OLD KENTUCKY

Secret Became Known Last Night and Couple Will Now Leave on Their Honeymoon.

Charles Combs, the popular young son of Mr. and Mrs. William Combs of Glenwood and Miss Bessie Carter, the accomplished and one of the most popular young ladies of this city, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mort Carter of North Sexton street were secretly married in Newport, Kentucky, September 10, 1908.

On that day the couple left here telling their folks and friends they intended to attend the State fair, but instead they went to Kentucky and were married. To an intimate friend, Mrs. George Schrader, they confided their secret which was jealously guarded, but in some way or another, it leaked out yesterday evening. When the pair learned that their secret was public, they immediately planned a honeymoon and will leave for Chicago this evening for a brief stay. On their return they will be at home in Rushville to their many friends.

It has been rumored about for some time that the couple was married and now many of their "wise" friends are nodding their head with a "I told you so" air and declare the pair have acted like a newly married couple on numerous occasions.

Shelbyville.

WILL CLOSE DEAL TONIGHT

The Shelbyville News says: The consummation of a business deal pending several days for the purchase of the Casady pool and billiard and bowling alley on South Harrison street by the Gray Bros., of Rushville, and O. L. Stephens, of this city, was reached Monday.

Possession was taken immediately. Casady Bros. started the pool and billiard room several months ago, later instituting a bowling alley above the pool room. The venture was a success from the start and the new proprietors have the assurance of liberal patronage among the sport loving people.

Casady Bros. came to Shelbyville from Rushville. They have not announced their future plans. O. L. Stephens is a well known Shelbyville boy, at one time being proprietor of the Broadway Nickelo. The Gray Bros., of Rushville, bear an excellent reputation in their home city.

STUBBORN FIRE RAGED TWO DAYS

Sweeps Over Four Hundred Acres
Near Orange—Some Young Timber Killed.

THE FENCES WERE DESTROYED

Farmers Fought Valiantly to Save
Buildings—Beat the Spreading
Flames With Branches.

A forest fire of great extent which had been raging in the country just south of Orange since last Saturday afternoon, was put out last night, says the Connersville News, after persistent fighting by all the farmers of the neighborhood. The source of the fire is unknown, but it is believed to have spread from a cigar stub dropped among the dry leaves. It was first noticed on the farm of Martin Stephens and had already spread a considerable distance. Although the wind was not high the fire spread with surprising swiftness, gaining force as it went, and by the time the neighborhood had been alarmed and had gathered to oppose it it had gained great height and headway and was going like a prairie fire.

In spite of the efforts of the fighting party, who worked far into the night, it was not extinguished. They believed it was out, and wearily withdrew, but Sunday morning it was found that it had broken out anew and had burned over a considerable territory. The fight was taken up afresh and continued about all day. Last evening the last spark was whipped out. Many fences in the neighborhood had been destroyed, and some young timber was killed, although most of the timber on the burned district was of little value before. Altogether a tract of nearly four hundred acres was swept. The territory lay chiefly on the Meek, Stephens and Morgan farms, all south of Orange. At one point the flames leaped across Garrison Creek, which is low, and raced over many acres on the opposite side.

DEATH CLAIMED SUFFERER

Lee Clawson Died in the Asylum Last Saturday Evening.

Lee Clawson, a well known former resident of Connersville, died at East Haven, Richmond, at a quarter past six o'clock, Saturday evening. Three years ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis. Later the bursting of a small blood vessel in his brain resulted in a mental derangement. Four months ago he was taken to East Haven.

Mr. Clawson was born in Rush county August 15, 1858. In 1877, March 13, he was married to Miss Catherine Shrimp, also of Rush county.

HAD BIG BANQUET AND INITIATION

Rush Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, Enjoyed Elegant Feast at Lodge Rooms.

OUT-OF-TOWN MEMBERS HERE

The Rush Chapter, Royal Arch Masons had a big time last night in their lodge rooms in Main street. Six candidates were initiated, taking the Royal Arch degree, and about one hundred members enjoyed a banquet, which was "fit for a king," before the work was given.

Earl Payne presided at the head of the banquet table as toastmaster, requesting toasts, all of which were well responded to.

Several out-of-town members of the local chapter were present.

LOOKS LIKE EASY MONEY AT FIRST

Until Taken to Bank, When Found
They are Good Only as Partial Payment on Articles.

WHICH MAY NOT BE WANTED

About a year ago a lot of people were made to feel good by receiving "checks" for sums of money ranging in amounts from $75 to $100. The "money" of course was a source of gratification in itself, but their special source of rejoicing was that they were the favored ones because they had solved an intricate problem. But strange as it may appear dozens of people here in Rushville solved the same problem and all got checks. But a check, like a mule or a load of hay, are worth just what they will bring in cash. These checks were all right—in a way—they were good as partial payments on pianos sold by a certain house, but didn't look good to local cashiers.

The self same scheme is working this year with a different puzzle. The question is how certain fat people can get across a river in a boat of limited carrying capacity. Quite a number have figured it out and are not suffering from brain fog as the puzzle is nice and easy, as the promoters intended it should be so that more people would write the house, get checks and thus bring the name of their piano more prominently before the public. The sad thing is a lot of good people have their hopes raised, to later find them dashed to earth on realizing that the checks are valueless unless they want to make a purchase of a costly article that they may have no use for.

JACK ROSS OUT FOR CONGRESS

Boom is Launched in His Home Paper
—A High Tribute is Paid to Him.

WAS AN IMPORTANT FIGURE

During the Recent Campaign Mr.
Ross Proved Himself a Capable and Strong Politician.

A little newspaper that has four counties "cornered" and printed in Andersonville, "nestled among the hills," fired a boom last week for Jack Ross for Congress. In a dignified and thorough manner the Andersonville Four County Herald launches Mr. Ross as follows:

"It is recognized by all who know the facts that the Republicans of Franklin county are always to be depended on and although they always have an up-hill fight in the county, yet they never waver. The county never had a candidate for Congressman from the Sixth District and the question from now until 1912 is, will such an honor justly due be paid. The Republican sentiment on this county, especially in his home community, is that Hon. A. J. Ross should have the honor of carrying the banner of Republicanism in the Sixth district four years hence. Why not? Jack is a man whose attachment to the G. O. P. has never been questioned; well educated; firm and resolute in his convictions of right and wrong; of unquestionable ability; a thorough law student; a good judge of men and conditions; known well and favorably among people all over the district, and in the recent campaign developed a political insight, oratory and acumen that surprised even his best and closest friends. His speeches during the late unpleasantness, were by far better than even those of the speakers sent out by the National committee, and were very effective. He proved himself conversant with the political situation and knew just how to show it to others. In fact, Ross is not a biased partisan, but possesses all the characteristics of the man we need to represent us in the dusty, but illustrious halls of Congress.

BABY'S ITCH EASILY CUERD

Infantile Eczema Quickly Relieved by External Use of Oil of Winter-green Compound.

Infantile eczema, which has baffled the skill of the best physicians for so many years at last seems to be curable—and curable with great ease.

Results of the last two years indicate conclusively that baby's itch, infantile eczema and other skin diseases of children can be very simply cured by the application of a compound composed of oil of winter-green, thymol and glycerine, as in D. D. D. Prescription.

The Rev. Lewis Steele of Weatherly, Pa., writes:

"Our baby boy's little face was so dreadfully covered with eczema that blood and water ran from the sores nearly all the time. After using 3½ bottles of D. D. D. Prescription we are so happy to tell you he is entirely cured and the disease has never broken out again. If this letter is in any way a help to other sufferers, you may publish it."

If you have a child which is suffering with this terrible itch, we are sure you will not neglect one hour to give your baby the right kind of relief. We have seen too often how quickly the remedy mentioned above takes the itch away at once and how all the cures seem to be permanent; we have seen this too often to hesitate at all in recommending the remedy for your children.

A LIFE OF TERROR

Jan Pouren Tells Court of His Experience in Russia.

New York, Nov. 24.—Hiding in the woods in Russia for months to escape the emperor's troops and seeing companions shot to death by the soldiers was part of the testimony given by JAN POUREN.

Jan Janoff Pouren, the political refugee, whom the Russian government is seeking to extradite on various charges, at a continuation of the hearing in his case.

After two pitched battles between a company of militia, formed of the Social Democrats and the government troops, in which his party had met defeat, Pouren testified, he lived in the woods for months in constant terror. There were many other fugitives in the woods, said Pouren, and they were banded together in the organization of Brothers of the Woods. The "brothers" worked in conjunction with a central committee, which kept them informed regarding the activities of the imperial agents.

"Sometimes this committee sent us fugitives," said Pouren, "and some times they told us of political spies watching us. These we tried to dissuade in their work, and some of them we had to shoot."

The Brothers of the Woods, according to Pouren, opposed the sale of liquor, and burned vodka shops. The witness told of half a dozen that they destroyed, and also of killing the proprietors. Charges of murdering several persons, made by the Russian government, Pouren denied.

New York's Expensive Campaign. Albany, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Total receipts of $392,318.68 and disbursements amounting to $318,283.43 by the Republican state committee during the recent campaign is shown in the report filed with the secretary of state. The Democratic state committee received $206,360 and disbursed $204,892 during the recent campaign, according to a similar statement.

Another Postoffice Robbed. Brazil, Ind., Nov. 24.—Thieves forced an entrance to the postoffice at Seelyville, west of here, and blew open the safe. About $100 in money, a quantity of stamps and valuable papers belonging to Postmaster Samuel Shipley and other citizens were taken. It is believed that the work was done by professional safeblowers, as there is absolutely no clue.

Released Pending Appeal. San Francisco, Nov. 24.—Walter J. Barnett, convicted of embezzling securities belonging to the Colton estate, from the vaults of the California Safety Deposit and Trust company, and sentenced to ten years in San Quentin penitentiary, has secured his release on bail pending a decision of his case by the appellate court.

Not Guilty, Says Adler. New Orleans, Nov. 24.—William Adler, president of the defunct State National bank, pleaded not guilty to the charge of misappropriating the funds of that institution before Judge Saunders in the federal court. Mr. Adler was released under the original bond of $10,000.

INDIANA POLITICS

Robert G. Tucker.

Indianapolis, Nov. 24.—The official returns collected by district marshals and tabulated in the presence of Governor Hanly and Secretary of State Sims showed that Judge Taft carried Indiana by a majority of 10,731 over Bryan. He did not have a plurality of the entire vote, as President Roosevelt had four years ago. Judge Taft's majority over Bryan was the smallest any Republican nominee for president has received in Indiana since 1892, when President Harrison was defeated by President Cleveland. Judge Taft's majority over Bryan was $3,213 less than President Roosevelt received over Judge Parker. The total vote this year was 721,126—new record for Indiana. The total four years ago was 682,185. An interesting feature of the returns shows that while Parker received 274,345 votes four years ago, Bryan received 338,262 this time—a difference of 63,917 in Bryan's favor. It was estimated four years ago that at least 60,000 Democrats voted for President Roosevelt. Bryan received more votes in Indiana this year than ever before. His followers insist that the returns show about the relative strength of the two old parties for the first time in many years. While President Roosevelt's majority over Judge Parker was $3,213 more than Judge Taft's over Bryan, Judge Taft's total vote was but 10,296 less than Roosevelt's. The official returns show that while the Socialists increased their vote about 1,200 over four years ago, the Populists lost about 1,000 and the Prohibitionists 5,000. Many Republicans will lose financially because of Judge Taft's small plurality, as a large sum was bet that his plurality would exceed 15,000. The process of gathering and tabulating the official returns on presidential candidates in Indiana is intricate and slow. According to law the vote of the presidential electors must be canvassed on the fourth Monday of November in which the election is held. The canvassing board is composed of thirteen election marshals, appointed by the governor, and the secretary of state and governor. The law reads that the vote shall be canvassed by the secretary of state and the thirteen election marshals representing the thirteen congressional districts of the state, in the presence of the governor, who is the official head of the board. The election marshals come to the session of the board with the official returns from the district election boards, and this official return is checked with the returns forwarded to the secretary of state. Sometimes the result is affected a few votes one way or the other by corrections which the official district boards may have to make.

It is not expected that much will be done by the Democratic candidates for the United States senate until after Thanksgiving. About the first of next month some of the candidates will open headquarters here to begin their fight in earnest. The indications are that John W. Kern, the Indianapolis candidate, will have to overcome the opposition of a large element that is opposed to him because he lives in this city. Throughout the state a feeling is being manifested now against giving Indianapolis any more federal patronage. The Fort Wayne Journal-Gazette, leading Democratic paper of northeastern Indiana, is booming Edward G. Hoffman of Fort Wayne, and is going after Kern, declaring that Indianapolis is not entitled to everything politically. The Evansville Courier, the leading Democratic paper in southern Indiana, makes a similar protest against Kern, whose friends here are redoubting their efforts in his behalf and are predicting that by the holidays the sentiment in his favor will be overwhelming.

The Indiana Manufacturers' and Shippers' association has issued an invitation to its members to meet here Dec. 9 and 10 for their annual convention. In their invitation they call attention to the declaration of both the old parties in favor of a general public utilities commission. The association is in favor of a public utilities commission, and plans for having a law enacted for that purpose will be discussed at the convention.

Governor Hanly has issued a proclamation putting into effect the acts of the recent special session of the legislature, "from and after the hour of 10:45 o'clock a. m., the 20th day of November, A. D. 1908."

JUST TEN GUESSED THE MISSING WORDS

In the Saturday Evening Contest Which Was an Easy One— Many Replies Received.

MRS. F. L. WILSON THE WINNER

Mrs. F. L. Wilson of 1013 North Morgan street is the winner of the Saturday evening Missing Word contest. The missing words were "kinds" in J. W. Hinkle & Co.'s ad, and the word "will" in the Kramer rink ad. Ten correct answers were received. It is surprising—and agreeably so—to the Daily Republican and the advertisers as well, to note the interest taken in the contest. Everybody, old and young, is interested nightly, and we receive a large number or replies each day.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

MADE HIM "DIZZY HEADED."

(Greensburg Review.)

Elmer Martin, a conductor on the "Cannon Ball" for years, went to Indianapolis yesterday, on the traction line.

There is nothing in the mention, but there is a story involved.

Elmer Martin has been for twenty-two years running on the C. H. & G., and after an accident in the yards at Columbus, was given a lay-off on account of a sprained ankle, sustained by stumbling over a block of wood carelessly left on the grounds by an employe of the Big Four.

Mr. Martin said to a Review man that on the trip to Indianapolis, he had a spell of dizziness, and could not account for it.

A man who had had experience along these lines, suggested that Conductor Martin had been so long used to the Cannon Ball rate of "miles to hours" that the traction car in its schedule time, at a death rate, moved his head dizzy.

Mr. Martin will still stick to his job on the slow going railroad.

SEMI-MONTHLY PAY LAW.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 24.—An important hearing will come before the New York State supreme court the latter part of this week, involving the constitutionality of the semi-monthly pay law. Seven railways have appealed to the court, asking for a permanent injunction restraining Attorney General Jackson from enforcing the statute, on the ground that it constitutes a violation of the constitution.

WHERE TALK IS MADE TO ORDER

Persons Engaged in Work at Motion

Picture Theaters Must be Artists.

HOW A WOMAN WORKS HERE

Great Field of Opportunity is Opened in a Business That Has Come to Stay.

If you do not think it is something of a trick and an art to "talk" moving pictures, just try it the next time you attend a theater where the pictures are shown and artists are not employed behind the curtain. But you say they have the manuscript of a play to follow the action. You are wrong again! They have nothing but their brains and a wonderful imaginative power. There are some who contend that the new art will develop many writers of plays and books, as it virtually requires an author to concoct the material following the action of the pictures. In France today, many of the foremost playwrights are following in the wake of the public's demand for motion pictures and are at work writing plots to be enacted by a trained company of artists for the moving picture machines. Thus, it will be seen, we can expect much in a field that is barely opened up where there is no end to the possibilities and golden opportunities. Besides the educational end of the business, it means much more as foreign lands and scenes are brought before our very eyes for a mere pittance. Again many of the industries, strange to us in this country, as some of ours are strange to others living in other climes, are reproduced in detail.

At the Vaudet theater here last week appeared Miss Mayme DeRusell of Indianapolis and from the reception given her she will remain a feature at this theater indefinitely. To begin with she is an actress, of marked ability and being an intelligent woman, is able to get all there is in moving pictures. It is just like some teachers can get more out of a lesson for children than others and give a better and more comprehensive interpretation of same. Every night, after the regular show at the Vaudet, the pictures to be used the following night, are thrown on a canvas, and it is there that the woman conceives the plot and dialogue. Maybe on the following night when the picture is being shown to a crowded house she will see an opportunity to put in an extra phrase or a good catchy line and this she does with the care of one trained in the lines of a drama. She has engaged several local persons to aid her in "talking the pictures."

Thanksgiving Catechism

Where were Thanksgiving services first held?

In England, during the time of Cromwell Thanksgiving days were common occurrences.

The discovery of the "gunpowder plot," in 1605 was followed by a thanksgiving in England and that nation observed such a day on many like occasions, the last probably being a national thanksgiving when the Prince of Wales, now Edward VII., recovered from a serious illness.

Where and when was the first Thanksgiving observance in the New World?

The first thanksgiving held in America was not held within the bounds of the United States, but on the shore of Newfoundland, May 27, 1578, at the time services were held by the Rev. Mr. Wollfall, an English minister. He had accompanied an early colony from England. It is claimed that it was the first Christian sermon preached in the new world.

When was the first Thanksgiving proclamation in this country?

November 19, 1621; made by Governor Bradford to the Pilgrim Fathers. He announced that since they had just gathered abundant harvest of grain and the cold weather had sent plenty of game to their forests, December 13, 1621, would be observed throughout the Plymouth colony as a day of Thanksgiving.

Who signed the first Thanksgiving proclamation ever issued by a President?

George Washington, in 1782. Who originated the modern Thanksgiving Day, as it is observed in the United States?

The Thanksgiving as it occurs today, dates from 1864, when President Lincoln issued a proclamation for setting apart the last Thursday in November of that year, as a day of national thanksgiving.

Each succeeding President has annually proclaimed a thanksgiving day which is generally followed by similar proclamations by the governors

Who makes the Thanksgiving proclamation?

The President writes it out with his own hand, trying to put in as much of the spirit of the day as possible. This is not an easy task. He must avoid repeating expressions that have been used by preceding Presidents, and yet he must cover the same ground that they cover. When he has finished writing it out, it is copied and this copy is sent to the State department. One of the clerks, who is a good penman, writes the proclamation artistically on parchment. The parchment is then sent back to the White House, and the President signs it; after that it is taken back to the State department, where the Secretary of State adds his name; then the great seal of the State department is affixed. In order to put the great seal on the proclamation, a not from the President is necessary, in which he says: "I hereby authorize and direct the Secretary of State to cause the seal of the United States to be affixed to my Thanksgiving proclamation, date this day and signed by me, and for so doing this shall be his warrant."

What is done with the proclamation when it has been thus written and signed?

A great many clerks of the State department are then ordered to make as many copies as there are governors of States and Territories. These copies are written by hand on long sheets of blue paper. The State department never uses the typewriter or any other means except artistic official correspondence.

What do the different governors of the States do when they have received their copies of the President's proclamation?

They then write special proclamations of their own, announcing to the people of their States the fact that the President has fixed on such and such a day for the observance of thanksgiving worship and festivities.

AMUSEMENTS

The Vaudet is continuing those extra strong programs with a new reel of pictures each night and three changes of talking pictures during the week. Last night large crowds enjoyed a fine program. Tonight besides the "Indian's Gratitude," talking pictures, will be shown two good subjects, entitled, "Willie's Fall From Grace," and "The Stolen Plans, or the Boy Detective."

Outside of America all Europe is talking about this great play, "The Devil," which will be seen at the Grand theater tonight. The story of a first introduces the audience to a banker and his wife and their mutual friend who is a portrait painter. The artist has been the wife's first lover. She goes to pose for him and as they are recalling the happy days of eight years ago, the Devil appears and begins his satanic campaign for the damnation of two souls. The eternal trio, husband, wife and lover, are shown to be stupid persons of the world, whose humanity is easily attacked by the evil one. He leads them the primrose path through three acts. The Devil appears as a man of the present, a cultured gentleman, brilliant and witty. No play of the present decade will interest theater goers as this most wonderful creation.

Home Furnishing Co. to Close Out $50,000 Stock—Biggest Retail Enterprise Here.

EARL CHURCHILL TO RETIRE

The Home Furnishing Company, one of the largest department stores in this part of the State, will be closed out in a sale that starts in a few days. Earl H. Churchill, general manager, and one of the largest stockholders in the enterprise is going out of business on account of ill health. He has been unfortunate in suffering from a number of complaints during the past few years and will retire after the stock is closed out.

With the passing out of the store goes one of the largest retail establishments ever located here and one that any city twice or three times the size of Rushville in population, could feel proud of. In the retirement of Earl Churchill, Rushville will lose one of its most progressive young business men and a factor in every undertaking for the promotion of the welfare of the city or county.

Negroes Resisted Arrest. Tiptonville, Tenn., Nov. 24.—While endeavoring to arrest three negroes, James, Marshall and Edward Samberg, brothers, who were creating a disturbance during services at a negro church near here, Deputy Sheriff John Hall and Richard Burras, whom Hall had deputized to assist him, were shot and wounded by the negroes. Hall, it is believed, will die, while Burras is seriously wounded.

A South Carolina Lynching. Charleston, S. C., Nov. 24.—Jim Gilmore, a negro, was taken from the guardhouse in Luray and lynched. Gilmore had attempted to criminally assault one of the daughters of his employer. Her screams aroused the family. Gilmore confessed, implicating another negro.

VALUABLE TROPHY WAS WON BY BROOKS

Made an Average of 85 Per Cent on the Four Events—Broke 100
Out of 120 Birds.

GIVEN BY HUNTER'S ARMS CO.

Charles Brooks won the vase which was offered by the Hunters' Arms company, in the series of weekly shoots given by the members of the Gun club. Brooks broke 100 birds out of 120 chances, or 30 chances at each shoot, making a series of four events held successively for four weeks.

It was the intention of the Gun club to hold a series of six shoots, but not enough were present at the last two, so the trophy was awarded, taking the first four events as a basis.

Brooks broke about 85 per cent. of the birds shot at and had no very close second. The trophy awarded is a very valuable vase and is well worth the effort which it took to win it.

A GOOD STOMACH

Means Good Health, Cheerfulness, Ambition, Persistency and Success.

Relief is not cure; opium will stop the most excruciating pain, but it won't cure the disease.

And it's just the same with alleged dyspepsia cures which contain pepsin. The pepsin will help to digest the food, but the stomach is left in worse condition than it was before.

You don't want pepsin to digest your food; you want the natural juices of your stomach to digest your food. If you have dyspepsia or any stomach trouble, you want to make your stomach so strong that it will digest its own food.

You can make your stomach so strong that you can eat what you want and all you want any time you want it, without distress.

Mi-o-na will cure your dyspepsia or any other stomach trouble by building up the flabby walls, and making the stomach so strong that it will digest food without artificial aid.

In other words, Mi-o-na cures dyspepsia by removing the cause.

Johnson's drug store is the agent for Mi-o-na in Rushville and he says to every reader of the Republican whose stomach is weak, who has indigestion or dyspepsia, that Mi-o-na is guaranteed to cure or money back.

The price is only 50 cents a box, and one box is all you need to prove that you are on the right road to health and happiness.

"I can't say enough for Mi-o-na tablets; they have done more for me in one week than all the doctors have for the two years I have been under their care, and I will do all I can to recommend it to my friends. You can also use my name in your ad. if you like, for Mi-o-na is better than gold to me. I am like a new man, and am able to work once more for the first time in over a year."—W. A. Mrs. George Davis personally conducted the members of the Coterie on a tour of inspection of the Rushville telephone plant Monday afternoon, after entertaining them with a most intensely interesting and instructive paper on the telephone from its earliest inventions to the time when Alexander Graham Bell became the inventor of the telephone in America, and then on to the wireless telephone in use at the present time on one squadron in the American navy. The ladies are under obligations to Mr. Davis for the lecture he gave on the telephone system used in our own Rushville.

Mrs. Davis also entertained the Coterie at the candy kitchen, where she had difficulty in counting five times fifteen.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Lincoln Gary, December 8. * * *

Lady Betty Across the Water.

By C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON.

Copyright, 1906, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

Stan looked at me the way he did once when I was small and spoiled his favorite cricket bat by digging up worms with it—as if he could have shaken me well and boxed my ears and would if I weren't a girl. As for Mrs. Ess Kay, she smiled, but her smile meant worse things than Stan's frown.

"Hello, dear boy," I chirped nervously. "How do you do, Mrs. Stuyvesant-Knox?"

Sally murmured something, too, and Stan had the grace to claw off his hat, showing how damp his poor hair was on his crimson forehead, but he didn't even pretend to smile.

"A nice dance you've led us!" said he. "By Jove, I wouldn't have thought it of you, Betty!"

"Maybe you don't understand yet," said I. "Wait till I've explained, and I'm sure you won't be cross, because you always were a dear."

"It's no good wheeling," he grumbled. "I'm not going to wait for anything. We've come to take you home, and the quicker you pack up and get ready the better."

"What do you mean by home?" I inquired.

"To Mrs. Stuyvesant-Knox's house in New York, where she says she'll be good enough to put us up till the next decent ship sails for England."

"I'm not going back to Mrs. Stuyvesant-Knox's," said I. "She knows why it's impossible."

"Rot," said Stan. "She's jolly kind to have you after the way you've acted. Anybody'd think you were eight instead of eighteen. You deserve to be put on bread and water for making me come 3,000 miles to fetch you home."

"I didn't ask you to come," said I, "and you needn't have bothered. Is Vic engaged yet?"

"Yes, she is; the day before I started. What's that got to do with it?"

"A good deal, according to her," I replied. "I'm engaged too."

"A nice dance you've led us!" said he.

"The dickens you are!" exclaimed Stan, getting redder than ever, while Mrs. Ess Kay gave a little start and glared at Sally.

My blood was up now, and I didn't care what I said. The sooner Stan knew everything just as it was the better.

"Yes, the dickens I am," I echoed.

defiantly, "and I don't intend to be treated like a naughty child by any one. I've done nothing wrong or underhand. We've only been engaged since yesterday, though we both fell in love at first sight on shipboard, and we've written to mother and you this very morning."

"Engaged to a man you met on shipboard!" repeated Stan, looking flabbergasted and turning from me to Mrs. Ess Kay.

"Tom Doremus!" she gasped. "Yet no, that's impossible. He's in Newport. But there was no one else. I was particularly careful."

"I am engaged to marry Mr. James Brett," I said. "He is—"

"There was no such man on the ship," she broke in sharply.

Then suddenly she almost jumped. "Good gracious!" she exclaimed. "Oh, duke, this is too awful. I remember there was a person in the steerage. But this is madness. It can't be!"

"He did cross in the steerage," I said. "What of it? He is the best and handsomest man I ever saw, and there's no finer gentleman than he. You can ask Sally if there is, for she knows him."

"And thoroughly approves of him," Sally finished, taking my hand. "Duke, I assure you Betty is to be congratulated. I understand that the duchess was not averse to her marrying an American, and the one she has chosen is of the very best type."

"I beg your pardon, Miss Woodburn, but hang the type," said Stan, who never did get on with Sally. "It's absolutely impossible that my sister should marry such a person, and you ought to have known better than to encourage her. This is a hundred times worse than I thought when I flung up the best shoot of the season to come and fetch you, Betty. You and I were always by way of being pals, but I agree with the mater now. You've behaved disgracefully, and as for the man, whoever he is!"

"Here he comes to speak for himself," cut in Sally, squeezing my hand hard.

There was a sound in the distance—voices shouting, but not the voice I loved. We all looked, and a black horse with a man on his back sprang into sight, like a rocket gone wrong. It was Jim, looking more beautiful than any picture of a man ever painted, his face transported with the joy of battle and triumph and that fiend in horse shape under him doing all he knew to kill.

It was a terrible and yet a splendid thing to see, that struggle. I hadn't known how I adored Jim and how I admired him till I saw him with that smile on his face, sitting the black devil as if he were one with him in spite of the brute's murderous plunges.

The two shot past the house like a streak of lightning, then wheeled back again, the horse clearing a ditch and a five barred fence from one meadow into another, but he didn't jump in spite of Jim; rather was it in spite of himself. Then there was a series of mad buck jumpings, leaps into the air and downward plunges. The beast sat on his haunches and then reared up with a great bound, to waltz on his hind legs and paw the air, snorting. But still Jim smiled and kept his seat without the least apparent effort.

"Jove! That fellow can ride!" muttered Stan, taken out of himself by his man's admiration for a man.

"It's Jim Brett—my Jim Brett!" I cried. "What do you think of him now?"

But it didn't occur to Stan to answer. I don't suppose he even heard. He was far too deeply absorbed in the passing drama, and in a minute more Jim and the black horse were out of sight again.

But I was not at all afraid for him now. I was only proud and sure—as sure as I was of life—that he would conquer.

Nobody spoke. Mr. Trowbridge and Mr. Jacobsen, the disagreeable cowbell man, who owned the horse, ran by as fast as they could go, too excited to glance at the house. Mrs. Trowbridge and the girls had come from the kitchen and were hanging over the nearest fence. Patty was whimpering a little, so I guessed all in a flash that she had cared for Jim.

We stood still in our places and watched. I could hear my heart beat, and it had not time to calm down before Jim came riding back on the black horse—a changed black horse, all winning airs and graces, to cover shamed penitence now.

The creature pirouetted up the side road, and Jim stopped him at the veranda, patting the throbbing black neck. "Well, I believe I'll buy him myself," he said, smiling to me, and then he saw Mrs. Ess Kay and my brother.

"By Jove, Harborough!" said Stan. "It is you, isn't it? Surely it isn't your double?"

"Harborough it is," said Jim, while I listened, dumb with wonder. "How are you, duke? I was rather expecting you might turn up, but I cabled to you last night to Boodles' and wrote you this morning on the chance you hadn't started."

"Well, I'm blowed," remarked Stan, most inelegantly. "Are you Brett or is Brett you, or is he somebody else?"

"My name is James Brett Harborough. Perhaps you didn't know or had forgotten," said Jim, and then, jumping off the horse and throwing the lines to Mr. Jacobsen, who had just trotted anxiously up, he came to me.

"Will you forgive me?" he asked. "I don't know yet what it's all about," I said dully.

"Miss Woodburn knows and Mohunleigh knows. You see, he and I were old pals, so I told him I was in love with his cousin and was going to try hard to win her in my own way. You remember Mohunleigh's friend Harborough. You said the other day you were sorry for him, and you wished him joy of his love affair."

"Oh, is that the reason you pretended to be only Jim Brett?"

"I am Jim Brett. But now you understand, will you forgive me?"

"I don't understand yet, except that you must have been afraid I might care more for your money than for you if I knew. Oh, how could you think such a thing of me? But about the steerage—"

"That was beforehand. It had nothing to do with you, though everything that was to come came from it. I was abroad for a couple of years and a friend I knocked against in Paris last June bet me $1,000 that in spite of all my queer experiences I wouldn't have the pluck to rough it in the steerage of a big ocean liner. I took the bet and won it. If it hadn't been for seeing you I should have gone west almost at once after landing in New York, but I had seen you, so I stayed. Luckily for me I'd met Miss Woodburn often in San Francisco and once here. She recognized me in my steerage get up and was the only one who did, but her tact kept her from spoiling sport. She guessed there must be a game on and said not a word to any one. She wouldn't, even if I hadn't managed to send her a note, which I did. I had a conversation with her on board, too, the day before getting in and—well, I talked about you. Even then I felt sure you couldn't be the sort of girl to care about money, but—"

"It was partly my fault, Betty," Sally broke in when he paused. "To be quite, quite frank, I knew that the duchess had fallen in with some ideas of Katherine's, and I couldn't tell how far your bringing up mightn't have influenced your nature, so I encouraged Mr. Harborough to test you by keeping up the story that he was a poor young fellow named Jim Brett. It handicapped him and kept him away from you, but you were interested in him to start with, and I did my best to keep up the romance. I thought he wouldn't lose by it in the end, and he hasn't. There was the morning in the park; I managed that, and I got Katherine to send him an invitation to her big party. He was playing a waiting game, because he wanted you to care in spite of every drawback, or else he wouldn't want you to care at all, and then, before he was ready for any coup, fate stepped in and did the rest."

"In the best way it could have been done, I think," said Jim. "Now, little girl, do you understand, and have you forgiven me?"

"I'd like to think you could have trusted me from the very first, without playing at all," I answered. "Still—it is romantic, isn't it? And, besides, even if I were very angry, I—I'm afraid I'd forgive you anything after seeing you ride that horse."

"I'm hanged if I couldn't, too," said Stan. And, laughing, the two shook hands.

"What about the duchess?" asked Sally.

"Oh, when I tell her that Betty's engaged to marry a chap I've met and liked in town—a thorough sportsman, too—it will be all right," said Stan.

I was glad he didn't refer to Jim's money, even though that is the thing which will appeal most to mother. As for me, I am almost sorry he isn't poor, if there's room in my heart to be sorry about anything. But I don't believe there is. It's such a beautiful world, and I shall have two homes in it now; one on each side of the water.

DR. HAINES IS ON STAND TODAY

It Was He Who Conducted Autopsy on Guinness Bodies.

MUCH DEPENDS ON EVIDENCE

Whether the Strychnine and Arsenic Found in the Stomachs of the Victims of Fire Caused Death, or Whether the Poison Might Have Been Injected Into Stomachs After Bodies Had Been Taken From Ruins, Forms a Question Upon Which May Hinge the Line of the Defense's Argument.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 24.—The trial of Ray Lamphere, farmhand, for the murder of Mrs. Belle Guinness and her three children, is drawing to a close. Another day will probably see the evidence all in. Dr. Walter S. Haines was called to the stand today. He is expected to testify to the finding of strychnine and arsenic in the stomachs of Mrs. Guinness and two of the children. He will then be asked by the state if he is able to tell positively that the three persons died of poison, or if it was not possible for the poison to have been injected into the stomachs after the bodies were taken from the fire ruins. Upon his answer, it is said, will depend in a large measure the line of argument to be pursued by the defense. As the case now stands the defense has introduced evidence to show that Mrs. Guinness was alive on July 9, more than two months after the fire in which the state contends she perished. The defense has also offered evidence to show that the fire was seen before the hour alleged by the state that Lamphere left Mrs. Smith's residence, thereby laying ground for the alibi theory.

Lamphere, according to statements of the defendant's attorneys, will not go on the stand.

After finding that no person bearing the name signed to the letter received by Mayor Darrow from Chicago, stating that the writer had accompanied Mrs. Guinness to Laporte on July 9 was registered at the hotel named in the letter, attorneys for the defense gave up that clue.

A letter received from Michigan City saying Mrs. Guinness could be found at 327 Walker street if Attorney Worden would call for Mrs. McConnell, brought out the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Lew McConnell live at that number. The authorities believe the writers are merely seeking notoriety.

Those afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble, backache, rheumatism, Pinules for the Kidneys brings relief in the first dose. Hundreds of people today testify to their remarkable healing and tonic properties. 30 days' trial $1.00. They purify the blood. Sold by Lytle's drug store.

Seeking Expert Opinion. Washington, D. C., November 24.—Chairman Payne of the house committee on ways and means has sent a telegram to Andrew Carnegie in New York city, asking him to appear this week to give the committee such information as he possesses in regard to the iron and steel industry and tariff schedules.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of known composition and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

SCORE OF LIVES LOST BY STORM

Arkansas Suffers Effect of Destructive Wind.

FULL DETAILS ARE LACKING

Owing to the remoteness of the Region Affected, Advices Are Meager, but Enough Is Known to Show That Several Small Towns Were Practically Wiped Out by the Devastating Tornado and More Than a Score of Lives Were Lost in the General Wreckage.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 24.—According to advices received here, meager because of the remoteness of the section affected, more than a score of lives were lost and many other persons were injured in a tornado which swept the northwestern section of this state, completely demolishing several towns and razing vast tracts of timber. The section reported storm-swept is removed from both telegraph and railroads, and, necessarily, details and confirmation of many of the reports are lacking.

The tornado, approaching from the southwest, crossed the Arkansas river several miles south of the settlement of Piney and, proceeding in a northeasterly direction, swept through the towns of London, Wallerville, Jethro, Lodi, Lewisville, Paterson and Berryville and outlying portions of Mulberry, either completely wrecking or laying waste the larger part of these places and destroying timber and crops throughout the intermediate country.

At Piney it is stated that twelve persons were killed and a number injured. Practically the entire settlement was demolished. At London ten are reported to have lost their lives and considerable damage to property occurred. Wallerville and Jethro are reported destroyed, several fatalities occurring in each place. In the vicinity of Mulberry the death list is placed at five.

At Berryville one woman, Mrs. J. O. Hoskins, was seriously injured and several other persons sustained lesser injuries. A path 100 yards wide was cut through the town, six buildings being completely wrecked and a number of others damaged, either being torn from their foundations or unroofed. Here the property loss is estimated at about $25,000. From the outlying districts considerable damage to property is also reported, but no loss of life. At Lodi three buildings were destroyed and one woman seriously injured.

Advices from Lewisville in the western portion of Lafayette county report the destruction of several buildings at that place, and at Patmos considerable damage to property as well as injury to a number of persons.

According to a dispatch received, the storm was at its height when it swept through Piney, a German settlement on the Iron Mountain railroad between Knoxville and London. Late reports from Russellville, the nearest town with which communication can be had, are that between twelve and twenty persons were killed and about thirty injured at that place. Five lives are also reported to have been lost ten miles from Mulberry, where one of the tornadoes did great damage. The storms also visited Ozark, from whence nothing has been heard as yet. Practically all telegraph and telephone wires in western Arkansas are prostrated. The tornado also struck Walla Walla and Dyer, two other small towns, doing considerable damage. Paths ranging in width from two miles to a half mile were swept clean through towns, forests and open country.

Some reports stated that nothing had been left in many districts, that homes, timber, buildings, fences and trees had been uprooted and blown to bits. A report from Fort Smith stated that it is estimated that twenty-five lives are lost in towns outside of Piney and Mulberry. This dispatch declares the destruction of the town of Cravens was complete. Four persons were killed, two fatally injured and eight missing at that place.

Rockefeller Shifts the Blame. New York, Nov. 24.—Credit for the creation of the Standard Oil trust, which counsel for the federal government claim still exists as the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, was given by John D. Rockefeller as a witness under cross-examination in the federal suit to dissolve the Standard, to two men—Henry M. Flagler and Samuel C. T. Dodd. These two master architects of the oil combine Mr. Rockefeller gave full credit, saying that he was sure it was not himself, as he did not possess the ability for so progressive a move.

Valuable Papers Disappear. Cleveland, O., Nov. 24.—County Clerk Charles H. Salen, subpoenaed to produce at the Standard Oil hearing in New York valuable legal papers wanted by Attorney Kellogg, found that the documents have mysteriously disappeared. Cannon, speaker of the house of representatives, has placed himself on record in favor of a revision of the tariff in accordance with the promise of the Republican party platform and declared that so far as his vote was concerned he would see to it that the announced policy of revision would be written in the national laws as soon as possible.

LORD ROBERTS HAS HIS FEARS

He Points Out How Easily Germany Could Take England.

SEES NEED FOR PROMPT ACTION

British Field Marshal in an Address Before House of Lords Expresses the Conviction That the Lack of a Military Force Sufficient to Make Hopeless the Attempt of an Invasion Would, in All Probability, Be the Cause of the Loss of Great Britain's Supremacy at Sea.

London, Nov. 24.—Speaking in the house of lords last night, Field Marshal Lord Roberts expressed the conviction that the lack of a military force sufficient to make hopeless the attempt of an invasion would, in all probability, be the cause of the loss of Great Britain's supremacy at sea. In a vigorous speech he pointed out the comparative ease with which Germany could land an army on the shores of England. Under the present conditions England would be forced, he said, to submit to most humiliating demands.

He disclaimed all hostility to or fear of Germany, but he declared that the defense of the islands required immediate attention. There should be an army so strong in numbers and efficient in quality that the most formidable of foreign nations would hesitate to make a landing in England. He had ascertained, the speaker continued, that vessels capable of accommodating 200,000 men always were available in the northern ports of Germany, and that as a result of the new German service law, 200,000 men could be collected in the districts of the nearest port without any trouble. The great German steamship lines were in constant practice in embarking and disembarking, and as the railroads were owned by the state, all preliminaries up to the actual dispatch of troops could be carried out with the utmost secrecy. Germany was perfectly aware, the field marshal went on, that it would be essential for her transports to evade the British fleet, and she could easily divert attention by small raids while the main disembarkation was proceeding undisturbed.

"It would be folly," declared Lord Roberts, "to shut our eyes to these possibilities, however much peace is desired. The startling events in the near East have brought home to the most careless observer that nothing could save that country which is not prepared to protect itself. If Great Britain continues to neglect the most ordinary precautions she may some day find herself in the hands of the invader and forced to submit to the most humiliating conditions. This danger is daily becoming more threatening. Within a decade Germany has created the greatest sea power that ever existed, except Great Britain, and at the present moment it is formidable. Measures are being taken to increase that power. It is calculated that there are 80,000 Germans in employment in Great Britain. They are trained soldiers, and if a German force once landed on these shores they would be ready to help."

Lord Roberts contended that it was not absolutely essential for a nation to command the sea in order to carry out an invasion. A temporary local command would suffice and this was perfectly understood in Germany. The main temptation to the invasion of Great Britain was the want of a home army which ought to consist of a million men. Across the narrow sea were 60,000,000 Germans who by perseverance, industry, sound education and military training had made themselves a great nation. They required outlets for their commerce and population.

It was Great Britain's business, continued Lord Roberts, to find out in what way the great increase in Germany's sea power was likely to affect her and to adopt measures necessary for her own defense. The navy under present conditions was fettered in home waters and without military force sufficient to render an invasion hopeless. Great Britain's military weakness would in all probability be the cause of the loss of her naval supremacy.

Lord Roberts's speech caused a sensation in the house. The Earl of Crewe remarked on the seriousness of such statements in the present high-strung condition of Europe's nerves, saying he feared there might be regrettable consequences. Lord Roberts's resolution to the effect that the defense of the islands necessitates the immediate attention of the government to make provision for such a strong and efficient army that the most formidable foreign nation will hesitate before making an attempt at landing, was adopted by a vote of 74 to 32.
